Developing a customer focused service culture

Introduction

APSE training is pleased to announce the creation of a new course to help organisations benefit from developing a truly customer-focused service culture.

This training and development day is designed to provide delegates with practical tools they can use to review their existing culture, policies and procedures.

The course will show delegates how to deliver services that increase customer satisfaction, involve and motivate staff, continually improve and enhance their organisation's reputation.

Sessions will be highly interactive. Delegates will be encouraged to discuss the challenges they are currently facing, learn from good practice and take advantage of networking opportunities during the day.

Objectives

The objectives of the course are to help delegates understand how to:

- develop a truly customer-focused service culture
- use customer insight to design, deliver and monitor services
- use customer journey mapping to really understand customers' experiences
- develop a practical organisational competency framework

Key themes

- understanding the key drivers of customer satisfaction
- improving information and access
- learning from dips in performance
- turning complaints into compliments
- setting and monitoring standards
- staff professionalism and attitude
- benchmarking and learning from the best

Who will benefit from attending?

The course will be relevant to those involved in delivering front-line services including Directors, Area Managers, Customer Service Managers, Quality Managers and Performance Managers.

Duration

1 day event: Start time: 9.30 am

Finish time: 4.30 pm

Trainers

The course will be delivered by APSE Associate Derek Trawber, supported by Jan Kennedy, Head of APSE Training.

Derek Trawber – APSE Associate
