

Highway Liability

(Developing a risk based approach to managing infrastructure)

21 May 2018, Manchester

28 September 2018, Glasgow

Highway Liability

Introduction

APSE, in conjunction with the IHE - Institute of Highways Engineers - is pleased to offer a new event to develop and undertake a risk based approach to managing infrastructure.

Following the publication of the 2016 Code of Practice "Well managed highway infrastructure", the IHE have been developing risk liability guidance to ensure that local authorities are fully compliant with their requirements in this area.

This one day event is designed to provide delegates with an understanding of the issues associated with their requirements, and the practical steps local authorities across the UK will need to take.

Places on these events will be strictly limited as they will be highly interactive working sessions which will consider the impact of current legislation and the procedures that need to be in place to comply with the legal requirements.

The objectives of the course are:

- Gain an understanding of the risk based approach
- Realise the key considerations for managing highway liability risk
- Appreciate statutory duties and legal implications within this approach
- Identify what is required for training and assessment of competence
- Gain awareness of the Information management and record keeping requirements
- Identify the issues on risk ownership and risk transfer

Who should attend?

The course will be relevant to those with responsibilities within highways including senior managers, area supervisors, health and safety advisors, trade union officials, elected members, or anyone who wishes to improve their knowledge and skills in this area.

Duration

1 day event: Start time: 9.30 am

Finish time: 4.30 pm

Trainers

The sessions will be delivered by Richard Hayes Chief Executive of the IHE, supported by the APSE Head of Training.

Richard Hayes – Institute of Highways Engineers

Richard was appointed to Chief Executive of the IHE in 2015.

He is a long standing member of the IHE, a former President of the Institute and has been instrumental in leading the Institute on winter competency standards and training.

Richard has led the IHE's long term project to provide clear career pathways within Highways and to improving the routes to Engineering Professional Registration.

He previously worked freelance as a head of service, consultant, interim manager and trainer across many sectors in the Highways industry and has over 30 years' experience in delivering highway services.

The Institute of Highway Engineers (IHE)

Formerly the Institute of Highway Incorporated Engineers, the IHE is the professional institution for practitioners in highway and traffic engineering offering Engineering Council registration and professional development support.

The Institute awards the professional qualifications: Incorporated Engineer, Engineering Technician and Chartered Engineer.

The Institute was founded in 1965 and celebrated its 50th anniversary in 2015.

It has been registering engineers and technicians with the Engineering Council since 1972 and accrediting academic courses since 1989.

IHE sponsor the All Party Parliamentary Group for Highways, Cycling infrastructure and the Parliamentary Advisory Committee for Transport Safety. IHE have develop the supporting guidance for Risk and Liability to accompany the UKRLG document "Well managed Highway Infrastructure."
