The venue

Members Room, County Hall, Matlock, Derbyshire, DE4 3AG

Getting there by rail:

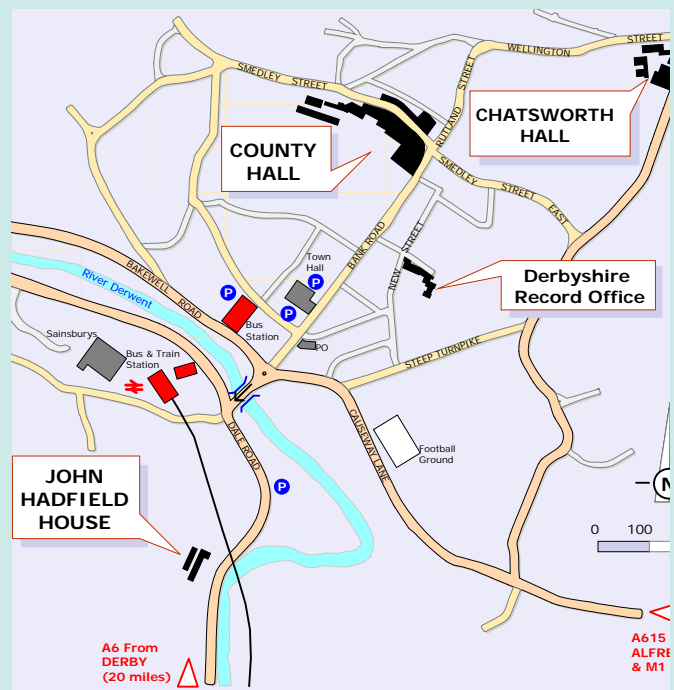

The easiest way to travel to Matlock is by train via the line from Derby. County Hall is a 10 minute walk from the station.

Getting there by road:

If you are heading to John Hadfield House please take the bypass (past the Sainsbury's superstore) and continue straight on through both sets of traffic lights to pick up the A6 again. For County Hall and Chatsworth Hall please continue straight on at the new island for Matlock town centre.

If you are travelling from the south on the A6 you are no longer able to come across the bridge into Crown Square in Matlock. You will need to take the bypass to the new roundabout the other side of town and take the second exit to approach Crown Square from the north - or take the first exit off the roundabout to continue north on the A6 toward Darley Dale.

A limited number of car parking spaces are available in the County Hall Car Park but there is limited availability and they will be allocated on a first come first served basis.

About this event

The seminar is a working event designed to explore the challenges and opportunities of bringing back into use former industrial land/reclaimed land for renewable energy and regeneration projects linked to decentralised energy benefits. It has been designed to provide for the maximum interactivity and participation by delegates and consider practical and 'live' case studies. All those participating in the seminar will be provided with a follow up briefing detailing the contents of the seminar and the key issues and findings.

Who should attend?

This event will be highly useful for Heads of Service, Service Directors, Elected Members, Lead Officers and Policy Officers with responsibility for:-

- Environment and sustainability
- Planning and regeneration
- Energy and energy management
- Finance
- Service transformation
- Service delivery models

As the event is free of charge this may prove to be a useful and cost effective team-building day for service teams to develop ideas and network with other authorities.

Reserve your place now by completing the booking form and faxing it or emailing to Vicky Starmer at APSE on 0161 772 1811 or vstarmer@apse.org.uk
