Local democracy, representation and accountability: What we heard?

- Models of political leadership and decision-making should be a matter for local choice.
- Councillors are under pressure - the image of the local councillor needs to be improved and the pool of people standing for election to local government broadened.
- Demographic profile of councillors needs to be more diversify and barriers to election and standing as a candidate removed for all social groups.
- Institutional complexity and churn, particularly in England, has confused lines of accountability.
- Calls for councils to be recognised as the 'democratic anchor' in a place, with its powers of scrutiny extended to cover all local services.

Reinvigorate the system

- Valuing local democracy
- Reconnecting decision making
- Area wide accountability and scrutiny
- Integrate health, education and housing
- Valuing elected representatives
- System redesign and remuneration

Local democracy, representation and accountability

16. Models of political leadership and organisation should remain a matter for local discretion. There should be no 'top down' imposition of any particular form of organising.
17. Local scrutiny should be strengthened with formal recognition of local government, the locally elected body, as scrutineer of other agencies and services in a place, with formal rights to information and meaningful impact. This might take the form of Local Public Accounts Committees. In return, councils themselves should be open to independent scrutiny.

Local democracy, representation and accountability

18. It is strongly recognised that communities are better served when the body of councillors reflects the diversity of their communities. In line with the Public Sector Equality Duty to tackle discrimination, councils as public authorities should develop and report on local action plans to make strident and conscious efforts to ensure access to political office for people of all backgrounds. The development of local action plans should be supported by national local government bodies and associations.
19. There should be better remuneration, training, and support for local councillors, as well as the introduction of a national remuneration scheme for councillors in England. National bodies on remuneration should make recommendations on how councils can best support the work of local councillors and ensure access to political office to all.

- Financial capital – resources supporting the financing of companies.
- Social capital – the strength of communities, relationships and trust.
- Institutional capital – local leadership, capacity and capability.

‘Empower local leaders and communities, especially in those places lacking local agency’

The funding?

APSE view

- Levelling up will not be addressed unless councils are properly funded.
- The accountability of different agencies and actors in local areas may have a negative impact on levelling up
- Local leaders are best placed to understand local areas and must be given a core role in coordinating change
- Addressing inequalities and engaging communities
- System change – but when and how?
- Performance data and reporting on success – issues with the Bill
